THE JEWISH CHRONICLE GREAT WAR INDEX

The Great War Index comprises all items pertaining to the First World War which appeared in The Jewish Chronicle between 1914 and 1918 inclusive. It was decided to produce this as a supplement to the regular indexes because we believed this would be a useful adjunct to other sources of Jewish history of the period.

We would recommend that this index is used in conjunction with the general indexes, particulary in seeking information about people. We do stress that this supplementary index in no way detracts from the comprehensiveness of the separate indexes for 1914 to 1918 and that all entries contained herein will be found, scattered, through the annual volumes.

The advantage of a cumulative war index is that the whole topic is encompassed in one work, which we feel is advantageous to researchers.

Please note that when using the bound volumes or microfilms of the newspaper that part of 25 January 1918 has been incorrectly printed as 28 December 1917 - in the indexes, we have corrected this.

In addition, in the bound volumes contained in the Jewish Chronicle Library, the issues for 17 and 24 May, 1918, have been intermingled in the binding process.
